Port of Baltimore Winter Storm Jonas Update -- Sunday, January 24, 2016 1 pm

The Port of Baltimore remains closed through the end of today.

Snow removal and plowing operations will continue throughout the day at all of the Port of Baltimore's public marine terminals.

Snow totals at the Port of Baltimore measured at least two feet.

Port operations personnel have been working 12-hour shifts since Friday evening on plowing and salting.

Ships will begin arriving tonight to begin being worked tomorrow.

Royal Caribbean's Grandeur of the Seas will arrive at the Port of Baltimore's cruise terminal tomorrow morning following a 24-hour delay due to the storm.
